

Following a College-wide search, Psychology Professor, Peggy Stockdale, was selected as the permanent Chair of the Linguistics Department. Stockdale is an Industrial and Organizational Psychologist who claims no expertise in but much appreciation for the discipline of linguistics. “I love working with such a talented and devoted group of faculty, staff and students,” said Stockdale, and “my goal is to work my way out of a job by nurturing these talented young faculty members so that one may take over as Chair someday.”
